Sic Bo is an ancient Chinese dice game still played in many Southeast Asian countries where it is known as Big and Small.

THE OBJECT OF THE GAME

To predict the outcome of three shaken dice.

Sic Bo is both exciting and easy to play, and offers a wide variety of options. Payouts range from even money up to 150 to 1.

THE BETS

The betting options available at Sic Bo are formed by the various combinations obtained with three dice. These wagers and their payouts are reproduced on the gaming table (see table layout inside).
Using value chips purchased from the dealer, place your bets on the table in the space(s) corresponding to your wager(s), ensuring that they are made in accordance with the minimum and maximum limits indicated at the table.
You may wager on as many combinations as desired per game. A wager wins if, after the three dice are shaken, their outcome corresponds to your bet.

THE PAYOUTS

After all bets have been made, the dealer activates the dice shaker. The outcome of each of the three dice appears on the display. At the same time, the spaces corresponding to the winning combinations light up* on the table. The dealer then removes all losing bets from the table and proceeds to pay all winners (for more details, see the betting chart inside).

*The spaces light up by way of indication only; should there be a discrepancy between the lit spaces and the real outcome of the three dice, the real outcome takes precedence.

This brochure gives a summary of the main rules regarding Sic Bo. For the complete rules that apply to Sic Bo, please consult Québec's By-law respecting casino games. In case of a discrepancy between the rules in this brochure and those in the By-law, the rules in the By-law prevail.
